TVDSA Newsletter

In this Issue

How can it be December, the end of 2015, and during the busy holidays for all?

We hope despite the busy schedules that come this time of year, you can bring your loved one with Down syndrome to either the Snackin' with Santa on December 12th or come ride the Christmas Trolley on December 29th. More information can be found on page 4.

Also in this month's newsletter, you will find a link to five powerful videos showing how Inclusive Education CAN work and CAN change lives, no matter the diagnosis, or severity.

On a lighter note, you can read through 21 ways to know you are a parent of a child with Down syndrome. How many times did you nod your head as you read through the list?

Did you know A&E Network is premiering a docu-series "Born This Way," following a group of seven young adults born with Down syndrome on December 8th? Read more on page 3.

Be sure to read a poem written by a 6th grader about her brother with Down syndrome on page 5.

TVDSA wishes you and your family a safe Holiday season!

Monthly and archived TVDSA newsletters are available on our website at: www.idahodownsyndrome.org for viewing and sharing.

Five Videos that will Change Your Mind About Inclusive Education by Tim Villegas

I don't know which side of the fence you are on in regard to inclusive education. And for all intents and purposes...it does not matter. This post could just as easily have been called, No...Really...I'm Not Crazy...Inclusive Education Works! Usually when I talk to people who are not familiar with the idea of having students with disabilities (including significant disabilities) in the general education setting they say they are having a hard time "wrapping their head around it" or want to see "what it actually looks like". So...just for those of you who need to see it to believe it, I have picked out five videos that will most definitely change your mind about whether inclusive education is really a good thing or not (or at least they should). Click on title or here to watch the videos.

- Including Issac: a 13 minute video about a boy with Spinal Muscular Atrophy and his story of inclusion in a private Christian school in Michigan.
- Damian's Inclusion Project: This video was made by the Georgia Department of Education (2011) to highlight a pilot inclusion program for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities in cooperation with Cobb County Schools.
- Thaysa: Thaysa Lumingkewas, 8, has autism and thrives at Maple Wood Elementary School in Somersworth, NH. The school has implemented Response to Intervention (RtI), Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS) and Universal Design for Learning (UDL).
- Tana Vogele's Story: Tana Vogele has been included in general education classrooms despite her significant physical and intellectual disabilities. Watch this compelling video about the friendships that have been nurtured during her 4th grade year and what inclusion does to a classroom and school community.
- Axel: This short film (16:39) focuses on Axel Cortes and the staff at Idelhurst Elementary School in Somersworth, NH. Axel is a fifth grader with autism who is non-verbal and exhibited significant behavioral challenges when he arrived at school.

Sometimes we need to see examples of inclusion to really understand that it is possible and happening all over the world. Perhaps you are the one who can influence your local school to implement inclusive practices.

You might be the parent of a child with Down syndrome if...

Raising any child can be a challenging, joyful and rewarding experience, but parenting a child with Down syndrome can involve its own unique quirks. The Mighty and Downs Designs Dreams*, an organization that designs clothing specifically for people with special needs, asked their readers on Facebook to complete this sentence: You might be the parent of a child with Down syndrome if ____.

Take a look at some of their favorite responses below for a glimpse into what it's like to parent a child with Down syndrome.

You might be the parent of a child with Down syndrome if...

1. "'Flexibility' is your mantra." — Kristin Thomas Cutlip
2. "You know that baby steps are giant leaps." — Sally Kennedy
3. "You understand a diagnosis is a direction, not a destination." — Ali Hammons
4. "You smile... a lot!" — Kim Sztajer Parnis
5. "You're used to every other kid charging to greet your kid with excitement when you enter a room." — Team KC UpHearted
6. "Sloppy tongue kisses become the norm." — Crystal DiPasquale
7. "You can see beyond outward appearances." — Melissa King
8. "Your next big hug is minutes away." — Liz Schwartz
9. "Your child's therapists know more about your personal life than your shrink." — Katherine Allison
10. "You have your priorities straight." — Anna Powers
11. "Your child wants to hug everyone they see." — Calvin Nelms
12. "Even the 'naughty' milestones are celebrated." — Debora Miller
13. "You know what love is." — Janilee Holmes
14. "You have watched the same movie a million times!" — Debra Bryan
15. "Your child sleeps with their chin resting on their knee caps." — Calvin Nelms
16. "A trip to the grocery store is like escorting the prom queen/king to the ball." — Liz Schwartz
17. "Everyone in your town knows you by sight as the mom of the kid who shouts 'hiya' to everybody, and they ask you where he is and how he's doing if they see you out on your own." — Kerry-Ann Fender
18. "You don't treat [your child] any differently than any other child." — Ann Reichelt
19. "Your 11-year-old still comes and crawls in your lap to snuggle every day." — Patrice Bagwell
20. "You know how incredibly blessed you are because of [your child] and their diagnosis." — Angela Palmer-Fisher
21. "Your child has taught you to see the world through the eyes of unconditional love." — Nancy Dyer

New Show Will Put Spotlight on People With Down Syndrome

NEW YORK, NY - November 11, 2015 - A&E Network will premiere the new original docu-series "Born This Way," following a group of seven young adults born with Down syndrome along with their family and friends in Southern California. The six-episode, hour-long series from Bunim-Murray Productions premieres Tuesday, December 8 at 8:00pm MST.

Cameras follow the young men and women of "Born This Way," as they pursue their passions and lifelong dreams, explore friendships, romantic relationships and work, all while defying society's expectations. In their willingness and courage to openly share their lives, through a lens that is not often shown on television, we learn they have high hopes just like anyone else. The series also gives voice to the parents, allowing them to talk about the joy their son or daughter brings to their family, and the challenges they face in helping them live as independently as possible.

"We are proud to be airing this important and extraordinary series and hope it will inspire meaningful conversations about people with differences," said Elaine Frontain Bryant, EVP & Head of Programming A&E Network. "'Born This Way' is a show with honesty, humor and heart that celebrates and embraces diversity."

"There is a freshness and honesty in the way these young adults lead their lives; something we could all learn from them. We are enormously thankful to them and their families for participating in this project," said Jonathan Murray, Executive Producer.

"I'm so incredibly proud to see 'Born This Way' highlight the outgoing personalities and amazing abilities of Best Buddies participants like Rachel Osterbach and Sean McElwee," said Anthony K. Shriver, Founder and Chairman, Best Buddies International. "It is my hope that this show will demonstrate to society that individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities are just like everyone else and should be fully included in our communities, our workplaces and our lives."

A&E has partnered with celebrated global non-profit organization Best Buddies International and committed to an on-air PSA featuring Anthony K. Shriver and Best Buddies program participants in support of promoting opportunities and increasing awareness for people living with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

The cast of "Born This Way" includes:

Rachel - Working in the mailroom for an insurance company, she will be the maid of honor at her brother's upcoming wedding. Rachel would love to get married herself, but first she has to find the right guy.

Sean - An excellent golfer and avid sportsman, Sean is a self-professed ladies' man, who is not shy about introducing himself to every eligible woman he meets.

John - From a very young age, John made it clear to his parents that he craved the spotlight. A born entertainer, John is committed to his music and is pursuing a career in rap.

Steven - Working as a dishwasher at Angel Stadium in Anaheim and in customer service at a local grocery store, Steven is a huge movie buff and knows the title and year of each Oscar winning film.

Cristina - This loving and compassionate young adult works in a middle school. In her free time she loves talking on the phone with Angel, her boyfriend of 4 years and the man she plans to marry.

As I Do by Ashley Klinkradt

Do you see him as I do?
With a smile on his face.
Or is he too different to you,
That you can't see his grace?

Do you watch him as I do?
As he struggles to share.
Or is he so hard to understand,
You don't hear what he says?

When you look at his eyes,
Do you see hope as I do?
Or is it just the different shape
That draws attention from you?

When he stands here in front of you
Sharing his dream
Can you see past his challenges
And become part of his team?

Do you see him as I do?
As courageous and handsome.
Down syndrome brings challenges
He has had to overcome.

So let me tell you a bit
About Down syndrome itself,
It has to do with an extra chromosome
In his or her self.

It affects how you look,
How you learn, how you grow.
But some things it won't change
Is that your feelings you know.

So take time with these children
Who are different to us
And give them a place in this world
With genuine love and with trust.

Ashlyn Klinkradt is 12 and in Grade 6 and is the oldest of 3 children. She has been advocating for children with disabilities since she was in Grade 1 (7 years old). At the age of 8 she became a Chaeli Campaign Pay-It-Forward Ambassador. She speaks annually for Down Syndrome Awareness Day to children at her school. Ashlyn also enjoys partnering her youngest brother in wheelchair dancing, playing hockey, drama, and tennis.

Welcome New TVDSA Board Members

TVDSA is excited to announce and introduce two new board members.

Each have shared why they are volunteering to support TVDSA in its mission in supporting those in the Treasure Valley with Down syndrome.

Kristine Goodwin – Fundraising Chair

Since My Granddaughter, Journey, was born I have been very involved in helping where and when I am needed. I have served on the TVDSA Buddy Walk committee for a number of years now.

I wanted to be on the board to help the organization strive in its goals.

Erin Rosenkoetter – Community Chair

I am excited to be returning to the TVDSA Board! As a busy mom of 8, I have found that participation in TVDSA is THE BEST way to learn how I can support my son, Benjamin, and other individuals with Down syndrome. Through TVDSA I have made life-long friends, participated in awesome events such as World Down Syndrome Day and the annual Buddy Walk, made sure my son is fully included in school, attended conferences, and met some of the most wonderful individuals (who happen to have Down syndrome). I look forward to being a more active part of such an amazing group!

TVDSA still has vacancies on the board if you are interested in becoming more involved in TVDSA, sharing your opinions, and shaping the future for those with Down syndrome in the Treasure Valley. For more information on how to get more involved either as a board member or serve on a committee, please contact any TVDSA Board member. Click on the names below to contact them by email.

The mission of the Treasure Valley Down Syndrome Association is to enhance the quality of life for persons with Down syndrome by promoting inclusive environments, providing accurate information to parents, families, and the community, and by advocating respect, dignity, and appropriate supports for people with Down syndrome.
